Andy — touching base on the special master order. We will be sending you a markup. However, since we submitted the proposed order to the Court last week, in connection with further assessment of its secured party rights in light of Vice Chancellor Laster's ruling, Seecubic is exercising its right to possession of then collateral under Article 9 of the UCC and the security documents. It is also in the process of retaining an investment banker and will be pursuing a public sale of the assets to satisfy the debt that Stream has failed to pay for well over two years now. This seems to moot the special master order. We will send a letter to the Court on this issue.
